Great minds think alike

Audemars Piguet

In 1875, Jules-Louis Audemars and Edward-Auguste Piguet joined forces to found what has become an outstanding journey of the Haute-Horlogerie. Still on the move, the great Swiss Manufacture has never cease to create the most audacious and innovative timekeepers.

BRAND ESSENCE what the brand wants to stand for in the hearts and minds of the target customer. Inspirational, memorable, concise...

ROYAL OAK COLLECTION

In 2012, to celebrate the 40th Anniversary of the Royal Oak, the manufacture in le brassus is offering eight new models entirely in harmony with the identity codes of the original collection and the daring minds that decided, 40 years ago, to set out to conquer the world with an entirely unprecedented sports watch.

40th Anniversary

JULES AUDEMARS

Review the fundamentals

This highly symbolic collection bearing the name of one of the company founders reinterprets the past with a contemporary vision that remains one step ahead of its time. It focuses firmly on an understated simplicity that implies renouncing anything superfluous, showy or artificial. Through the models of this revisited collection, dedicated connoisseurs will perceive the perfection of every single part, whether visible or hidden from view, each of them consistently conceived as a masterpiece in its own right.

MILLENARY COLLECTION

The Millenary collection epitomises the brand identity by revealing a subtle blend of artistry and know-how. It surprises and appeals as much through its clever complex mechanisms as through its non-conformist models highlighting the three-dimensional aspect of their design. The four key assets of this collection are the sophisticated case, off-centred dial, variously sized hours and visible movement.

EXCEPTIONAL DECORATION AND FINISHING

In reading off the hours, minutes and seconds on dials, the gaze is inexorably drawn toward the subtle intricacies of the mechanism. Above and beyond their primordial functional role, each of the watch movement components contributes to the aesthetic beauty of the model, giving it an incomparable appearance radiating controlled strength. Each of the five levels that stand out when the watch is viewed in perspective reveals an exceptional quality of execution and finishing. Entirely assembled and decorated by hand, Calibre 4101 features twelve bridges that are snailled, circular-grained and adorned with a Côtes de Genève motif – all of which constitute authentic design elements. The mainplate also bears Côtes de Genève as well as circular graining in two different diameters serving to accentuate the overall three-dimensional effect.

BULL HEAD

WILD AT HEART.

There's nothing wrong with classic round Swiss dress watches, but sometimes they can be hard to tell apart. There's no mistaking a bullhead. First crafted in the late 1980s by Swiss watchmakers searching for a new, provocative style, the bullheads have the crown and chronograph pushers on top of the case, creating an iconic horned profile with unique vertical symmetry. Bullhead cases don't pretend to be thin. Why hide an object of beauty?

BRAND YOUR DIFFERENCE

Like each piece of art bravely tattooed on a body, Bombardier watches are unique, infused with unsurpassed precision and unsurpassed passion. Smarts and soul. Craftsmanship and courage.

THE COLLECTIONS

Full immersion

There is nothing frivolous, nothing mock about the three-brass creations. Bombardier watches make a bold statement.

Most cultures hide their dead and focus on the unhappy void left behind. The Day of the Dead celebrates our ancestors' lives and our own impermanence. Bright sugar skulls, like those that adorn the Bombardier SKULL collector watches, represent a departed soul and defy the mortality of bones.

FATAL ATTRACTION

The Day of the Dead provides us with the truth that life will not last forever. The SKULL watches celebrate the new subbing in industry and one secret odds to the beloved departed. They cast a hypnotic spell, of the right eye promises to be the next question.

SAMURAI COLLECTION

A Warrior's Tale

The way of the warrior is one of honour and determination. The samurai are born leaders, never followers. The Bushido code ruled Japan's warriors for generations, defining integrity and virtue.

Bombardier knows well what it means to defy convention, to create what we believe in, and the SAMURAI series of watches offers a constant reminder to those intrepid individuals who know what they believe in and follow their own code. The samurai on the brass dial is joined by another sculpted visage on the pocket watch mechanism.

Bombardier knows just what it means to stand up for what is right against the prevailing tide and the SAMURAI series of watches are a constant strength to those who follow their own code. The SAMURAI is a masterpiece that reflects the purity, nobility, virtue and resolve that are essential for the urban warriors of today.

COBRA COLLECTION

FEARLESS STYLE

The Bombardier COBRA is a tallmaster the watch's defiant message - it is proud, arrogant and above all, fearless. The COBRA justifies beyond the boundaries of definition, a piece where design rejects and overrules in all that matters.

BIRDS OF PREY COLLECTION

RAPTORS IN RAPTURE

The ultimate born predators. Distinguished by intelligence and free to roam the skies, they have mastered the globe with their predator's precision and its unerring eye, with the other parts predator's precision, it should be expected to show in the glory of the hunt. Bombardier's BIRDS OF PREY collection honors the established and its intense respect for volume.

ALEX BENLO

Minerals brought to life

Founded in 2014 by the Loth family and based in La Chaux-de-Fonds and in Hong-Kong, Alex Benlo strays from the well-trodden path of traditional watchmaking, choosing instead a world where nature takes centre stage.

Alex Benlo draws its inspiration from the power of nature and from human wisdom to fashion timepieces where minerals, and the interpretation we place on them, come to life through dials which are unique and captivating in equal measure.

Jack Heuer is the great-grandson of Edouard Heuer who, in 1860, founded a small watchmaking workshop in Saint-Imier which he named Ed. Heuer & Co. One hundred and fifty-three years later, Jack – now in his 81st year – is retiring as Honorary Chairman of TAG Heuer, one of the most reputable and innovative Swiss manufacturers of luxury watches in the 21st century. Jack Heuer has been the last member of the founding family active in the industry. He not only personifies the company but is also its leading ambassador. Above all, he has been the inspiration behind its development of technical and aesthetic masterpieces, thanks to his forward thinking and pioneering spirit, which would be the envy of many a young entrepreneur.

TAG HEUER

WHAT ARE YOU MADE OF

The development of the TAG Heuer 'What are you made of?' campaign takes the brand's message a step further and supports its new strategic directions by focussing on the strength and beauty of the brand's models, as reflected by the exceptional nature of its ambassadors: Brad Pitt, Uma Thurman, Tiger Woods, Maria Sharapova, Jeff Gordon, Kimi Raikkonen, Yao Ming, Shah Rukh Khan and Juan Pablo Montoya.

TAG HEUER GRAND LAUNCH

DREAM MACHINES DRIVEN BY GENEROUS HEART

TAG Heuer introduces the TAG Heuer Grand CARRERA: a premium Avant-Garde new series inspired by the motor-racing heritage and featuring unprecedented sophistication, performance and precision. The TAG Heuer Grand CARRERA is a new premium collection of superlatively sophisticated timepieces inspired by the spirit of modern GT cars.

LE GARDE TEMPS

Preserving, perpetuating and sharing traditional watchmaking expertise for future generations: such is the challenge that Philippe Dufour, Stephen Forshey and Robert Greubel set for themselves when they decided to join together in the adventure of an unprecedented project, “Le garde temps, la Naissance d'une Montre”. Since Philippe Dufour, Stephen Forshey and Robert Greubel all share the same passion and vision of watchmaking, their paths were destined to cross. Realizing that the practice and knowledge of many watchmaking techniques, and hand craftsmanship in general, was declining, inexorably sinking into oblivion and, systematically being replaced by industrial methods, they decided to take action by initiating a project involving the complete creation of a wristwatch – from the first sketches to the final timepiece. This adventure will involve two key angles: firstly, making an inventory of the watchmaking techniques that deserve to be safeguarded; and secondly, passing them on to a talented young watchmaker with the aim of perpetuating them.

THOMAS FRIEDEN

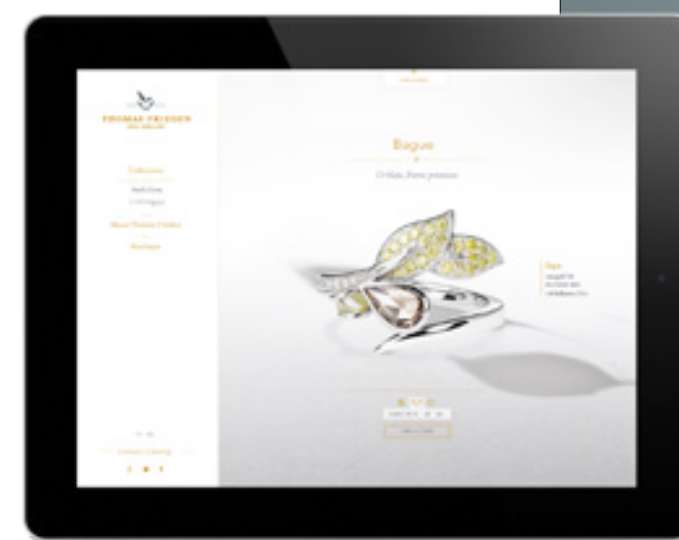

nature's glittering temptation

In early times, the bird was a symbol for freedom and it inspired the imagination of human beings. The ease and elegance of birds fascinated again and again. How they would sway and be carried in the air, apparently totally detached from everything down on earth. Still - as high as they fly, their eyes are always aware of what is going on. The magpie was chosen over one hundred years ago as Frieden's trademark, on the one hand due to the fascination caused by its shimmering feathers, beauty and elegance and on the other hand to the fact that she loves all that glitters and shines.

The brand aims to distil the skills it has acquired into avant-garde, carefully crafted products of timeless design.

PERRELET VISUAL EFFECT

Deriving their aesthetical inspiration from the field of aeronautics, engineers and watch designers have created a new adaptation of the Perrelet “ Double Rotor ”. The double rotor, transformed for the occasion into a turbine fitted with 12 blades made of titanium, covers the whole of the dial and slips beneath an interior black bezel. On the dial surface, stripes accentuate the optical effect and make the impact of this model all the more sensational.
